Chinese Airplanes Drop Bombs On U. S. Steamship

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30—British and American insurance underwriters today estimated the total war damage to Shanghai since August 13 at $275,000,000.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30.—Four planes, apparently Chinese, dumped bombs on the United States liner President Hoover on the high seas off the China coast today. Seven members of the crew were wounded and three passengers injured, according to reports from the ship.

The bombs tore gaps in the Hoover's hull at several points above the water line, but she came

Apparently the bombs were aimed at two Japanese destroyers which were manoeuvring in the Fraser. Our aim was to show the lack of money in the pockets of the people should no longer excuse the self-evident fact that they were very poor, when anyone with intelligence of the shabby must see, that here he is surrounded by a varied potential wealth in abundance.

Our sole rendered it utterly impossible for local banks to interfere with the conduct of the present business banking. What I thought could be done by our legislative council was to make it impossible for the banks to interfere with the conduct of the present business banking. Charges Bankers Are Premier's Advisers

All this, of course, applies only so far as this province is concerned. Neither citizens of other provinces nor the federal government can be expected to have any voice in the making of the verdict of a people's referendum. The fact is that our advisers are not only not to be trusted, but they are not the system for the people. They are not the system for the people. They are not the system for the people.

Right Operating of People's Credit

To be frank, this is not the case because, for over 15 years, in ever increasing numbers people of this province have been demanding that the entire world that it claims to be avoided, the right of the people to be heard in the making of the verdict of a people's referendum. The fact is that our advisers are not only not to be trusted, but they are not the system for the people.

Places Needs of People Above Law

Albertans are determined to show that such is not the case; that while, legally, they may be able to do so, there are no precedents in the law that would justify the observation of which is now being made of the letter of the law, because we do not observe them, living as we are in a state of lawlessness.

MOSCOW SIGN NON-AGGRESSION PACT

RUSSIA IS NOT BOUND TO AID IN CONFLICT

Action Taken As Gesture of Sympathy and Moral Support

NANKING, Aug. 26.—The Chinese government today announced conclusion of a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union which, however, does not bind Russia to come to China's aid against Japanese aggression.

The announcement indicated that it concerns China's present conflict with Japan, the treaty is only a gesture of Russian sympathy and moral support.

The treaty binds each signatory not to aid in any way a third party committing aggression against the other signatory but makes no promise of assistance against the aggressor.

The Nanking foreign office, in a communique, referred to Japan as "China's aggressor" but said if Japan would change her national policy China would be glad to conclude a similar non-aggression pact with her.

The communique said "great hopes are entertained concerning the agreement with Moscow, adding that it might 'prove a turning point in the general improvement of the far eastern situation'."

Warning To Japan
Seen In Pact

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—Soviet authorities last night confirmed the signing of a non-aggression pact with China. They refrained from explaining the pact, other than to say it was an act of peace.

Foreign observers were inclined to think the chief significance was moral support of China in her conflict with Japan.

It was generally considered the pact was negotiated as a part of the Soviet scheme to make such an agreement with any country that would sign it.

It was regarded as possible, too, that it was intended as a warning to Japan to avoid going too far toward conquest of China.

Soviet circles regarded any aid for China in the form of men or material was out of the question.

MILK ISSUE CREATES WAR IN B.C. FARMS

Insurgents Will Test Marketing Act Provisions in Privy Council

VANCOUVER, Aug. 30.—Rural verbal warfare is being waged across the British Columbia farm front today as insurgent farmers in a hotly waged "war" protest against the marketing act provisions.

The protest is directed toward the privy council committee of the privy council.

The insurgents, claiming 200,000 signatures, have formed in districts, provinces, counties, and municipalities, and are now presenting their case to the privy council.

Characterizing the milk marketing act as "a piece of legislation that would wipe out the small farmer," the insurgents will fight it before the privy council.

Chairman W. J. Park of the Board led a counter-attack with a charge of "misrepresentation" against the Board, the validity of which has been upheld by the British Columbia appeal court.

GREAT BRITAIN DEVELOPING DEATH BEAM

No Plane Could Fly Against It, Says Writer in London Paper

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Great Britain is fast developing an invulnerable death-ray.

The writer in the House of Commons today said that the defense minister, that, if the peace of Europe could be maintained for a few more years, Britain would be able to turn back the strongest of enemy air forces.

"It is a death ray of completely new type," wrote Victor Barnett in the Sunday Times. "It has very little in common with the popular conception of what a death ray should be and should do."

"It is sufficient to say for the moment that no aircraft or living thing could penetrate it or survive."

Research has reached an advanced stage and most startling results have been achieved.

"Scientists working on the ray are convinced that within a very few years, provided they are not hindered, they will reach perfection."

The ray is now being tested in full operation on air field could invade the country, no fleet could land a man, an army could march. It will become the greatest power since electricity and the atom bomb, because nothing can stand against it."

Chickens Fed To Snakes Stirs Human Society
